

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a frightening example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. The public interest is not served by huge corporations who attempt to manipulate people with their agenda.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
